

I am writing on behalf of the flight attendants who actively work in the environment which has changes from a decent,friendly atmosphere.To a very hostile,hostile,me-first,and only me,selfish,intolerent of others,type working situation. So adding a cellphone in the mix is just adding a match to an already explosive powder keg. We will have just an uncontrollable and ugly situation. We already have the verbal discussions w/the public to just get them to turn the phone off, after the boarding doors is closed, so we can leave.So, I beg of you to just leave this alone. There is absolutely "NO" need for anyone to use a cellphone while flying. While this is one reason and there are countless safety issues.This should not even be a debate,leave it be .Thanks from a flight attendant that is on the front line,Marlayna Franklin.
